

-I'm having difficulty managing my time between work and focusing on my ALX program. This challenge is making it hard for me to keep up with the coursework and learn effectively. If I can become more organized and solve this issue, I'll be more comfortable handling the course and will benefit much more from the learning experience.

-Peer #1: Yousra ouadoukou.

Your 5Ws and H were mostly clear, but "When" could be more specific, for example You should include time on a daily and weekly basis, especially after work hours.

-Peer #2: Essoubai Hiba.

First sentence is too vague. It's better to name the problem clearly (Prioritization, and Time Management).

-Peer #1: Yousra ouadoukou.

You did mention the specific population very well, and also you can use (Working professionals in the ALX program) in order to Identify who is affected.

-Peer #2: Essoubai Hiba.

In addition, you should include more details about why this problem matters, because it affects in Connects to learning outcomes, stress, and career growth. This makes the issue even more important to solve.

-Peer #1: Yousra ouadoukou.

In my opinion, you are dealing carefully with all Criteria problem statement, but you don't

Add statistics or a source for credibility. For example, you can use:

-Personal experience managing work and studies.

-Feedback from ALX community members who report similar time management struggles in peer discussions.

-After deep discussion about grammar issues and comments, I thank them so much for honest feedback and great points about adding clarity.

-In conclusion, Receiving feedback helped me realize my original problem statement was too vague. I learned to name the issue clearly in the first sentence and focus on a specific population. Giving feedback helped me notice similar problems in others' writing, which also improved my own. I now feel more confident.